	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. More detailed information about our fees and other costs can be found in Form ADV Part 2A.</li> </ul>
Conversation Starter	You are encouraged to ask a financial professional and start a conversation with the following additional questions about the impact of fees and costs on investments: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?</li> </ul>
What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money, and what conflicts of interest do you have?	When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect our investment advice. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Some of our employees and/or affiliates are engaged in non-advisory activities. Some of these non-advisory activities present a potential conflict of interest to the extent that our employees may receive additional compensation due to recommending additional services to clients. Potential conflicts of interest also arise because these non-advisory activities may require a time commitment from certain employees, thus limiting the time they can dedicate to providing advisory services.</li> <li>We pay referral fees to our employees for referring advisory clients to our firm. Payment of referral fees creates a conflict of interest because such referrals may not be unbiased and, at least, partially driven by a financial incentive. Please refer to our Form ADV Part 2A, Item 14, for additional information.</li> <li>The more assets in a client's advisory account, the more a retail investor will pay in fees. Our firm may therefore have the incentive to encourage the retail investor to increase the assets in their account or to engage in riskier investment techniques to increase the account size.</li> <li>If we recommend that a client roll over retirement plan assets into an account to be managed by us, such a recommendation creates a conflict of interest if we earn an advisory fee on the rolled-over assets. No client must roll over retirement plan assets to an account we manage. Please see our Form ADV Part 2A, Item 11, for additional information.</li> <li>More detailed information about our conflicts of interest can be found in our Form ADV Part 2A which is posted on our website and the Investment Adviser Public Disclosure website https://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov/IAPD/default.aspx.</li> </ul>

How do your financial professionals make money?	Our financial professionals are compensated with a base salary, discretionary bonus, and compensation for client referrals. Depending on the specific employee's compensation structure, additional assets under our firm's management and management fees paid by clients may result in a direct or indirect increase in that employee's overall compensation, including, but not limited to, discretionary bonus, if any.
